DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 41-58 and 63 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claims 41-58 and 63 of this application is asserted by applicant to correspond to claim(s) of U.S. Patent No. 5,729,603.

The examiner does not consider this claim to be directed to the same invention as that of U.S. Patent No. 5,729,603 because the support for the copied claims is not the same as that of U.S. Patent No. 5,729,603. Accordingly, an interference cannot be initiated based upon this claim. The specific differences are discussed below.

Regarding claim 41, the claim limitation recites "...a switch matrix, settable to any of a plurality of switch configurations... ". U.S. Patent No. 5,729,603 discloses that the plurality of switch configuration yields twenty-four possible combinations. However, the polarity of the signal lines is not important, thus reducing the twenty-four possibilities to 6 possible configurations as disclosed at column 4, line 32 through column 5, line 24 and exhibited in table 1. Conversely applicant's specification does not disclose the number of possible configuration, thus the support for the claimed limitation is different.

The claim further cites the limitation "...a control logic, coupled to the switch matrix, that automatically determines which of the plurality of signal lines from the handset port comprise the handset port receive path, determines a preferred switch configuration from among a plurality of switch configurations based upon which of the plurality of signal lines from the handset port comprise the handset port receive path, and sets the switch matrix to the preferred switch configuration, the preferred switch configuration coupling the handset port receive path to the headset receive path." U.S. Patent No. 5,729,603 discloses that control logic test each of the six configurations is tested with a test signal, typically a dial tone and the result is measured via the signal level detector to determine the preferred configuration. Each of the six combinations are tested sequentially and the result is compared to the previous result and the best result is used as the combination. Conversely the applicant's specification does not disclose the above process to determine the appropriate configuration. Therefore claim 41 fails to meet the requirement of MPEP 2307.02

Regarding claim 56, 57 and 63, disclose the same limitations as in claim 41, thus the applicant specification fail to provide the support to copy the claim limitation as stated above. Therefore claim 41 fails to meet the requirement of MPEP 2307.02.

Further, regarding specification of patented case and its applicability to the copied claims, Rowe v. Dror, 42UPQ2d 1550, states that "application claim must be interpreted in light of specification in which it appears, rather than with reference to patent from which it was copied, in interference in which issue is whether claim is patentable to party in light of prior art; rule that copied claim is interpreted in light of its originating disclosure applies in context of issue of whether applicant is eligible to copy patentee's claim and thereby challenge priority of invention.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed February 7, 2005, have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The examiner respectfully disagrees with applicant and the above cited rejection more than adequately meets the claim. In addition, 35 USC 135 states that for interference to be invoked a claim has to be the same as, or for the same or substantially the same subject matter. The examiner disagrees with applicant's conclusions and does not consider the patent and the application as containing the same or substantially the same subject matter.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
